

Abstract

There is disclosed a system and method for attracting clients and delivering professional services by using an expert system. Expert system queries a user regarding a professional end product, and based on the answers to the queries, provides to the user a completed or partially completed professional end product. For the user, the expert system is easily accessible and without charge. The expert system is maintained by an association of professionals. There is also provided a facility for the user to contact such association professionals.